In the end it is in the organisation's acting that the meaning of its existence becomes manifest. So, for an organisation to be a work of art that acting is an important subject and object.

Verbs are a reflection of acting.

Verbs provide a way to contemplate about what you do and could do. They are instrumental to explore unseen possibilities in your acting as an individual and collectively as an organisation. Verbs are the vehicle to differentiate consciously.

The pictures illustrate the backdrops against which I work as expressed in the verbs.
